American Insulated Glass Expands Leadership and Management Teams

Atlanta, GA. December 10, 2019—American Insulated Glass (AIG) is expanding its leadership team with the promotion of Clint Blair to vice president of operations. Blair joined AIG in 2017 as general manager, with more than a decade of experience in sales leadership and business development. He has played a significant role in supporting the company’s strategic plan to expand its geographical footprint and fabrication capabilities increasing the number of AIG locations from 2 to 6 in less than two years. Blair will continue to focus on growing the business organically and through business acquisitions.

Darin Johnson joins the AIG management team as regional operations manager, bringing more than 25 years’ engineering, operations and manufacturing management experience to the company. Johnson will oversee operations for AIG in Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, Michigan and Tennessee. His focus will be on improving operational efficiencies, growth and expansion opportunities and asset utilization. In recent years, he has held management positions with AGC North America and Trulite.
